Learn about Home Energy Alternatives at February 8th Green Village Workshop

Plainfield, IL -- Residential energy alternatives such as geothermal, solar, and wind power will be the focus of the February 8th Green Village Lecture Series workshop at the Plainfield Public Library. Jonathan Proulx, a planner with the Village of Plainfield, will provide an overview of alternative energy options and highlight examples from the Chicago region. Sustainable and renewable energy options to supplement traditional power supply in our homes are becoming increasingly popular, helped in part by tax credits and other financial incentives. The upcoming workshop will provide a general overview and identification of resources for further information.

The 2010 Green Village Lecture Series is generously sponsored by Illinois Landscape Supply. The Green Village Lecture Series is a partnership between the Village of Plainfield and the Plainfield Public Library District to host monthly workshops with an environmental focus. Events are held the second Monday of each month, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Plainfield Public Library.
